

For Immediate Release

Contact

Kelly Morris
Media Liaison
P-210.930.5252
kellymorrispr@gmail.com

realign,LLC

When Back Office Details Are Holding You Back...

Local organizational consulting firm expands to offer commercial quality organizing to home office clients

San Antonio (October 28, 2009)—realign, llc has learned that being a niche organizing firm focused on the commercial market has its advantages. Being good at it also has its demands — in a positive way. To meet the increasing requests of our clients who have busy lifestyles, both in the office and at home, we are expanding our services to the home office. Aimee Laun, a seasoned professional organizer, is taking on the role of home office specialist, effective immediately.

realign, llc has helped businesses, large and small, to organize their internal processes to maximize profit potential and develop strong foundations for growth. Shana Prichard, owner and operator of realign, shares, “We have had tons of requests from current and prospective clients asking us to help them in their home office. So, we listened and now we are ready to help businesses and professionals streamline every aspect of their life”.

By offering home office support, realign is applying the skill sets implemented and learned at the office into the home office setting. realign, llc offers a range of services that encompass organizational coaching, strategies for overcoming email overload and development of electronic and paper filing systems designed for quick access to data when it is needed. In the current economic climate, realign has seen substantial demand for help with development of strategies to cope with downsizing of staff and space and the elimination of duplicate and extraneous tasks.

realign, llc offers a host of valuable organizing support that goes beyond typical desk organization. For more information, call Shana Prichard at (210) 573-5627 or visit www.realignorganizing.com.

-more-

About realign (Organizational Coaching and Consulting) realign provides organization and efficiency to business owners and professionals who are ready to increase profits by eliminating chaos in their commercial and home offices. realign provides clients with data and time management strategies designed to fit their own work style and personal strengths.

realign realizes that clients' time is too valuable to be wasted looking for misplaced documents or following inefficient workflow processes. Organizing systems designed by realign emphasize the unique traits that have created clients' past successes and minimize time spent working outside of their core strengths.

###